3i agrees Trescal investment from Astorg Partners

3i, funds managed by 3i, and TCR have signed an agreement to acquire Trescal, a European leader in calibration and measurement service solutions, from Astorg Partners. 3i and TCR, which will take a minority stake, will invest alongside management, led by Olivier Delrieu.

Trescal is a leading European service provider in calibration and measurement service solutions with over 50 laboratories across eleven countries including France, the UK, Italy and Germany. Headquartered in Paris, Trescal has in excess of 1,200 employees across Europe and serves over 15,000 customers, across a range of sectors including defence, aerospace, telecommunications, transportation and automotive.

Since 2007, when Trescal was acquired by Astorg from Air Liquide, the company has made 8 acquisitions across 5 countries and has grown its turnover from €70m to €110m, reinforcing its leading position in the European market.

3i and TCR's investment represents a new step in Trescal's development, providing a platform from which to accelerate the company's growth and strengthen its market position, through both organic growth and consolidation of the market. In addition, 3i's global network will enhance Trescal's ability to access new geographies, such as Asia and the US.

3i has extensive experience investing in the business services sector and has a strong track record within the testing and inspection industry through investments in ESG (formerly Inspicio), a food and environmental testing and inspection services company; Inspecta, the leading provider of inspection, testing and certification services in the Nordic region; and Carso, the French leader in chemical, biological, physical and radioactivity testing services for the food, environmental and residential sectors. Furthermore, 3i successfully sold Inspectorate, a global commodity testing and inspection division and subsidiary of Inspicio, to French-listed Bureau Veritas earlier this year.

Remi Carnimolla, 3i Partner, commented: “Over the last three years, Trescal has experienced significant growth despite tough market conditions, which is testament to the great work of the management team. With our experience and knowledge in the testing and inspection industry, we are well placed to work in partnership with management to further grow and develop the business through organic growth and strategic acquisitions.”

David Robin, TCR Capital commented: “The company’s track record is testament to the talented management team with whom we are partnering. We believe that the team’s motivation combined with the extensive experience that we bring, will act as catalyst for a new period of growth for the business.”

Xavier Moreno, Astorg Chairman, commented: “The Trescal and Astorg teams have achieved an exemplary partnership, demonstrating that a non-core activity of a CAC 40 company can, with the assistance of an investment partner, make great progress in its external and internal growth as well as its financial performance – but also with respect to its social responsibilities, including offering significant incentives for its employees as well as enabling them to benefit from the value created over the past three years through an extended share ownership scheme.”

Olivier Delrieu, Trescal CEO, commented: “Astorg’s investment has enabled us to substantially increase our growth without compromising our fundamental values, which are security, technical excellence and social responsibility. We sincerely thank them for their constant support and availability to help us square the circle on a day-to-day basis. Our new shareholders, 3i and TCR, have strong sector experience combined with an extensive international network. It is with confidence and enthusiasm that we enter this new chapter of our development.”
